this book tackles some of the deepest problems in berkeley s philosophy by providing a fresh interpretation of berkeley s core ontological doctrines and their relationship to his views about self consciousness berkeley the author argues is led to adopt a new model of self consciousness because he rejects the basic metaphysics of many of his predecessors this new model of self consciousness provides the foundation for berkeley s own ontological framework bettcher s interpretation provides answers to long standing questions about berkeley s traditionally derided views about mind offers an elegant treatment of berkeley s core metaphysical views more generally and illuminates berkeley s innovative attempt to address the important philosophical and theological issues of his day moreover bettcher shows the importance of berkeley s philosophy of spirit to the perplexing thesis that the subject of experience is somehow mysteriously elusive she argues that berkeley can be seen as a transitional figure with respect to the older philosophical concept of subject as a metaphysical supporter of properties and the more modern philosophical concept of subject as opposed to object she provides a re reading of hume s famous claim that when he turned reflection upon himself he could perceive only perceptions and sheds new light on the notion of a subject of experience the book will be of substantial interest both to berkeley scholars and to philosophers concerned with contemporary discussions of self consciousness
